THE COTTON MARKET sesterday was busic flam for a day or two before, and less feverish, owing to more steadiness in the telegrams. The unsettled state of the Turkish difficulty, and the absence of telep" arms from England on account and by this winter cured product has of the Whissantide holidays, led to earlless on the part of some holders anxious to sell, and come I some Bregularity of The New York Bullet's of Satarday, reports: "Spots were advanced per pound, the offerings moderate, and a portion of the trade talking very strong and confident. Very fair sales have been made to aplubers, and in addition to the movement efficially reporded, we understand that some 1500 bales have been taken this aftersoon lata on Russian account. While genstal appearances are thus more favorable, we find a great many of the trade who are somewhat skeptical over the position. There is cartainly no general show of interest among operators on fereign account it is claimed, and while the sales for exporture not denied, there is thought to be some twist against it on the speculative market, in order to aid the inscipulations there go ng on, and no positive belief that a healthy movement of table cotton can be depended upon. The better tone of the cable advices from Liverpool and the reported movement of spots were named a basis upon which the buoyancy was infused, but there were a great many operators who considered these influences as ferce!, to aid what is claimed o be the manipulations of strong comination against forcing values up for further sales, and then another raid and break down all around. A want of general confidence is certainly noticeable, and though the close was pretty steady, buyers were not plenty." The New York Caronicle, of Saturday, reports: "Our crop reports this week are somewant irregular; that is to say, there have been quite general rains, which were very beneficial in many sections, but rather excessive in others, though uo actual damage is anywhere reported. Throughout Texas now the reports are extremely favorable; and generally in Louis ans, A kansas and Tennessee the same is siso true. In one half or more of Mississippi and two thirds of Alabains, warm, dry weather is much needed, as the plant is backward and the rains have been too frequent. In the Atlantic States the progress now making is generally very satisfactory. Planting has been going on this week in portions of the overflawed section." Then was a time when from winter curing, which was comprised in four months, supplied the has now been sufficiently demonstrated, had a competitor created for the supply of this interim, and its control of the market checked. But besides these causes another potent one is to be discerned in the general shrinkage of values of all commodities of life, the constantly limiting re-sources of the people." The Cincinnati Price Current says: "The extremely bearish tone of the provision market since our last could have scarcely been emphatic had the astronomical thrown his whole weight upon it. Prices fell l@lic per pound on nearly all leading articles, and so low that if packers sold they netted a loss of 15@20 per cent. The real weakness of the market, however, has not been in its statistical position, but in the speculative manipulations, and now that the shorts have an opportunity to cover their outstanding contracts at a round | refit, and the operators on the other side have been driven to the wall, we may look for a cessation in the strife and probably a more legitimate regular trade." Three Cheers for the Samuel J. Tilden. RIVER EDITOR APPEAL-Yesterday evening I named the new sternwheel steamboat lying at the foot of Exchange street, "Samuel J. Tilden," and she will be inspected this noon. The boat is one hundred and ten feet long and twentytwo feet long, and will class as a freight boat. If you feel any interest in the matter I will be plessed to see you. I am a Tilden man, right or wrong, withcut hope of reward. Yours truly, JAMES K. MULKEY, Master, Marine Miracles.

Very dull yesterday. At sundown not a single packet was to be seen at the levee. The Joe Williams yesterday morning had succeeded in getting affoat fourteen of her barges, and with the assistance of lighters, wheelbarrows and laborers, which were sent up to her, she will get the remaining boats affoat, and move on her way rejoicing.
The James Howard, which passed down before daylight yesterday morning, was drawing ten and a half feet. She added here one hundred and seventy-nine bales cotton. The Andy Baum left for the Obio last evening, with 40 bales cotton, 200 brls oil, 30 bales paper stock, 70 bbls potatoes, 100 pieces walnut and about 30 cabin passengers.

The Bell Texas from Arkansas river was due last night. She returns to Ar-The Trader, with Cap'ain Todd in command, leaves to-day at noon for upper White and Black rivers.

The regular Memphis and Arkansas kansas river this evening. City United States mail packet, Pail Allin, can be found in port this morning, and leaves again this evening at five sharp.

The fleet passenger steamer Charles Morgan, with Captain Alf Stein on the roof, will pass down at noon to-day for the Crescent City. Harry Stein will be found in the office.

Sudden Death of a River Mau. Cincinnati Enquirer, 5tb.] J. R. Steelmen, clerk of the Era No. 9 CHICAGO, June 6.—Flour quiet; died at the marine hospital at twenty common to choice western shipping minutes past eleven o'clock Saturday night. His taking off was very suc and unexpected, and caused the greatest surprise to his friends. At breakfast Saturday morning he was in his usual health, and made no complaint of illness. He left the boat in the morning on business, and after visiting several places in the city, went to the office of an old friend, where he spent the greater part of the day. He made no mention of being ill, not even after the fact was noted by his friend. As his symptoms became alarming, his friend sent for a physician, and for Captain Drinkwater, the commander of the Era No. 9. Both the doctor and the captain arrived at the office shortly after five o'clock, but the physician was unable to determine the nature of the illness, and recommended that the patient be sent to the hospital, which was accordingly done, and by half-past six o'clock the staff of hospital were in attendance but unable to properly disgnose the disease. The patient died at twenty minutes past eleven o'clock in the night having had constantly the best medical attention and nursing. The deceased was a strictly temperate man, and of correct moral habits. During the time of his illness not a muscle was conracted, which seemed to do away with the idea of apoplexy. From the time he was first taken ill he never spoke, and died unconscious. The physicians made an examination after death, and decided that the death was not occasioned by poison. They will give the re-sult of their deliberations to day. Mr.
